Babes in the Wood

Babes in the Wood was written by Richard Hichens, and first performed in January 1985 by a drama group in Suffolk. It has been specially adapted for the Burton Joyce stage with new effects and sequences. The music for the show has many special words written by Pat Marshall who also has the task of ensuring everyone is in tune.

Over 100 costumes are required for this production, many are taken from our wardrobe, whilst others are made specially – under the careful eyes of Libby Henshaw and Sue Gale, our wardrobe mistresses for this production.

The backcloths are once again masterpieces from the brush of Marilyn Drake. Give yourself time to look at the Snottingham scene, surely one of her best.

We hope you enjoy the performance, and will come to see our other productions.
